WINE CARD

GEORGIA

“CRADLE OF WINE”

Georgia is considered to be the birthplace of wine, and its history can be traced back over 8000 years when the people of the South Caucasus discovered that if wild grape juice was buried in a pit over winter, it turned into wine.

More than 8000 years old Rkatsiteli grape seeds were discovered in clay vessels (Qvevri), indicating on highly developed viniculture in Georgia.

Wine fermentation in clay vessel is one of the oldest winemaking method, which has been always present in Georgia from ancient times and is still used in Georgian wine production today.

This ancient method of winemaking has been given heritage protection status by UNESCO and is added to UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage Lists

There are 8 wine regions in Georgia: Kakheti, Kartli, Imereti, Racha-Lechkhumi, Abkhazia, Adjara, Guria and Samegrelo. From over 500 unique and endemic grape varieties, 30 are being used for winemaking in Georgia. Kakheti is well known for Saperavi, Rkatsiteli and Mtsvane varieties; Kartli for Goruli Mtsvane, Chinuri and Tavkveri; Imereti for Tsitska, Tsolikouri, Krakhuna, Aladasturi and Otskhanuri Sapere; Guria and Abkhazia for Tsolikouri and Chkhaveri; Samegrelo for Ojaleshi; Racha-Lechkhumi for Usakhelouri, Aleksandrouli, Mujuretuli and Tsulukidze's Tetra.

Georgian people express their love to wine and grapes in different ways such as traditional georgian ornaments, songs, poetry and arts.

“...the only country in the world where winemaking methods that were developed up to 8,000 years ago have not been abandoned, but remain in many ways best practice.”
